

HIGH-LEVEL PLENARY

Leveraging the EU Sustainability Framework for Corporate Impact

25/06/2024, 13:40 CEST

With the supporting partnership of the European Investment Bank (EIB)

CONTEXT

Regulation plays a vital role in advancing sustainability by establishing guidelines for businesses, organizations, and individuals to operate in ways that benefit the environment, promote social equality, and foster economic growth. And it can do so because regulation contributes to:

- Setting Standards, hence establishing clear targets for sustainability performance, such as reducing emissions or promoting renewable energy.
- Promoting Transparency and require businesses to report on their sustainability impacts, fostering accountability and informed decision-making.
- Providing Incentives and financial support for businesses to invest in sustainable practices and technologies.
- Enforcing Compliance and ensuring businesses adhere to sustainability standards, preventing greenwashing and promoting integrity.
- Stimulating Innovation to drive market demand for sustainable solutions, spurring innovation and market transformation.

Through these measures, regulation supports impact in sustainability by creating a conducive environment for businesses to prioritize environmental and social responsibility.

ABOUT THE HIGH-LEVEL PLENARY

This High-Level Plenary will focus on how industry leaders, policymakers, and sustainability experts can work together to confront the implementation challenges of European-level sustainability regulations and guarantee they lead to a meaningful impact on environmental and social sustainability.

This session will answer the following questions:

- How can sustainability regulations be designed to go beyond compliance and effectively drive meaningful impact in environmental and social sustainability?
- How can policymakers facilitate collaboration with businesses and other stakeholders to co-create effective and pragmatic sustainability regulations that balance environmental and social objectives with business realities and economic considerations?
