

Transparency updates: 2017 initiatives and news about sustainability reporting

Date: 18th October, 10:00-11:00

Sustainability reporting represents an ever-evolving and improving field. On a positive note this ensure that frameworks, standards and supporting resources are constantly improving to become better tools for business. On the hand though, there is a risk of losing sight of the different initiatives and apply them effectively to represent a support rather than a burden. In this respect, 2017 has hosted the raising and application of different initiatives, namely the Task Force recommendation for Climate-related Disclosure, the GRI standards (launched in 2016), ESG guidance from stock exchanges, the emerging field of SDGs reporting and human rights assurance guidance. During the webinar we will map, analyse in brief and discuss how to best apply them.

Join this webinar to:

- ✓ Learn about the major initiatives and news which occurred in 2017
- ✓ Understand the main objectives and high-level content of each initiative
- ✓ Sharing experience from users of reporting frameworks
